ATLANTIC CITY, April 1.—Easter preparations are in full swing. Many of the new arrivals of this week will remain here over the big seashore occasion, and most of the big hotels are making full reservations for patrons from all over the country. Weather discussions ante the possibilities of clear and warm weather for the Easter day boardwalk parade are taking place. In hotels and on the walks, and the question of wearing is an absorbing feminine topic.

It looks now as though the visible supply of boardwalk rolling chairs would be unequal to the Easter demand. Many forerunners are engaging their chairs for the occasion and late arrivals will probably discover that the entire number, 2,000, will be engaged.

Women are taking a special rolling chair costume to be worn on Easter day, but the more democratic, including the usual Easter sprinkling of governors of states, diplomats, members of Congress and lesser officials, as well as numbers of leaders in business, society and profession, would be satisfied to stroll the several miles necessary to inspect the Easter pageant.

Golf and fishing continue in favor as outdoor sports. Practically all the men who have little regard for pre-Easter plans. The New Jersey trout season opened today. The fishing in the pond in this section has been stocked by the state during the year and good sport is expected in bays and inlets and the disciples of rod and line are expected to be settled here to go after their fluky prey.

Golf schools have reached the Boardwalk and many golfers who expect to play in spring tournaments here are limbering up winter-bound muscles when weather conditions preclude outdoor golf on local courses.
